NAF pride themselves in providing Five Star Treatment to support the health and wellbeing for our horses and ponies. For over 35 years NAF have been providing horses and ponies with nutritional and topical support throughout their careers, disciplines and lifestyles.

Our portfolio is underpinned by a strong ethos of quality, research, development and real trials. Our in house teams of experts are headed up by our Veterinary Director Dr Andy Richardson BVSc CertAVP (ESM) MRCVS for our veterinary team, working closely with Head Nutritionist, Kate Hore RNutr(Animal) R.Anim.Technol (Cert) BSc and the nutrition team, while Quality Control Manager, Dr Sara Matthews Ph.D Bsc and her team to ensure all products are safe, effective and legally compliant. We work to provide each horse and pony the opportunity to feel great, look great and achieve winning form.

Trusted by riders worldwide, we are proud to be Official Suppliers to the British Equestrian teams, thanks to our effective and extensive product range and our advanced Quality Control Department. Our commitment to quality means we have full traceability of ingredients and don't just comply with, but surpass our regulatory bodies' expectations, helping to ensure our Clean Sport mantra is firmly met.

To help deliver Five Star Treatment, we are at hand to answer any nutritional enquiries you may have, from active social media accounts to a dedicated, free nutritional advice line; we would love to hear from you.

Our Registered Nutritionists answer your questions

LOADING DOSE

Q: Why do you have a Loading Rate on some products?

A : For some products, particularly those targeted at specific challenges for your horse, it is sometimes useful to feed a higher rate for short periods of time. The Loading Rate allows a maximum rate to be fed, which can be particularly useful when introducing the product for the first time, or for feeding at peak times.

However, that Loading Rate is powerful and concentrated, and probably more than your horse needs for daily maintenance. To continue to feed the loading rate would be wasteful in many cases. Therefore, we recommend a lower Maintenance Rate, which our research tells us is sufficient for healthy maintenance in most horses and ponies.

It is worth noting that in these specialist products, the ideal maintenance rate can be specific to your horse or pony and their particular requirements. Therefore, once you're on the Maintenance Rate, do adjust it if necessary to find the rate that best suits your horse.

SMALL PONIES

Q: I have an 11hh Shetland – should I feed half the rates?

A: For diet balancing products containing vitamins and minerals then you should feed appropriate to your pony's bodyweight. You'll find feeding rates for ponies on the label, and for a small pony you could feed at the lower level.

For our more targeted nutraceuticals, aimed at specific issues, the feeding rate is dependent on the individual and their particular requirement, and is not necessarily related to bodyweight. For these products we would advise starting your pony at the recommended feeding rates, but if you find that is doing very well for them, then a lower maintenance rate might be suitable.

SYNERGY

Q: You talk about the importance of synergy in your products, but what does that mean?

A: The definition of synergy is the interaction, or cooperation, between substances that produces a combined effect, which is greater than the sum of each individual part. Much like the well-known saying 'the whole is greater than the sum of it's parts.'

With our unique formulae, synergy refers to combining the right ingredients in the right ratios to get a unique result, such as our antioxidant blends which are scientifically verified to give a stronger antioxidant result than the individual ingredients could.

It takes decades of applied experience to understand how to combine these complex nutritional ingredients in the right ratios to achieve an activation rate synergistically. Get it wrong with incorrect ratios or incorrect herbal interactions and the formulation may not have the desired effect! Here at NAF we are fortunate to have working veterinary surgeons and international veterinary scientists with peer-reviewed published work, underpinned by registered nutritionists and renowned chemists who understand how to formulate for the good of the horse.

ANTIOXIDANTS

Q: What are antioxidants, and why are they in so many of your products?

A: Antioxidants are compounds that can help protect your cells from damage, and from ageing. That damage is called 'oxidative damage' and is done by small, highly charged molecules called 'free radical toxins' or 'reactive oxygen species (ROS)'. Oxidative stress is a normal part of all cell reactions. When your system is in good health your own antioxidants, both from your basic diet and internal antioxidants such as those produced in the liver, and the enzyme Superoxide dismuttase (SOD), work to maintain a healthy internal balance.

However, at times of physiological challenge, oxidative stress grows quickly, in what is called a 'free radical cascade', such that your background antioxidants are overwhelmed. That challenge may be something obviously damaging like an injury, inflammation or cough; or it may be more subtle in your horse — intensive training, regular travel, exposure to air borne allergens. Whatever the reason, your horse needs additional antioxidants to help get their system back in a healthy balance.

There are 'pure' antioxidants that are well-known in nutrition, such as Vitamin E and Selenium, and these do have their roles to play in specific situations. However, here at NAF we know oxidative stress is a complex issue, and requires a complex answer. For this reason, we prefer to rely on nutritional complexity of natural antioxidants from plants such as rosehip, turmeric, ginger or omicha. Antioxidants are one of the key reasons we are all advised to eat plenty of fruit and vegetables, as they are good sources of natural antioxidants, and we find the synergy of the right natural sources together more powerful than relying on single ingredient antioxidants alone.

Why feed for healthy flexible joints

Joint health correlates to performance, if your horse and pony is not comfortable, their performance will be limited. This does not just relate to the competition individual, performance is also measurable in those that are not competing or ridden.

Therefore, addressing joint health has to be of paramount importance for every horse and pony throughout their lives, helping them to maintain an active lifestyle without compromising their capabilities. Providing the right nutrients at the right ratios will help to nourish the joint and support healthy movement in all individuals.

Five Star Superflex and Superflex Senior include a complex of scientifically verified ingredients included at active levels to support and underpin healthy joint function. Formulated at effective levels without unnecessary fillers or quantities, developed with our veterinary and nutrition teams and trialled with leading riders.

Feed for their flexibility for life.

Why feed for healthy hooves

SUPPORT FOR YOUR HORSE'S HEALTHY HOOVES

Biotin is usually the first go to ingredient for hoof health, while growth is supported, the overall integrity and strength of the hoof capsule requires many more nutrients to work together to establish strong feet.

PROFEET works to develop and encapsulate strong, healthy horn that will in turn be capable of supporting the weight of the individual without compromising overall hoof health and as a result reduce potential locomotion.

PROFEET includes the four essential sulphurs to provide building blocks and address overall hoof integrity, while nutrients work to encourage blood flow to the extremities to help promote optimum growth and condition.

As prey animals the horse's natural response to danger is to turn and run – act first, ask questions later! An independently run, placebo controlled, trial at the Royal Agricultural University found the unique synergistic blend of Five Star Magic was able to support focus and learning in naturally reactive horses. Supporting their digestive process by targeting nutrient absorption helps to maximise their dietary intake. We can further help by providing the right offering to target individual needs, which is why we have an extensive digestion range.

GET IN THE METAZONE

Metazone is a unique veterinary formulated nutraceutical designed to support the body's own anti-inflammatory processes, for horses and ponies who need something extra.

Reactive markers are evident in nearly any imbalance within the system, as these triggers are an intrinsic part of the body's reaction to physiological stress wherever it occurs. Thus the botanical phytochemicals in Metazone support the equine system wherever they are needed, be that in the joints, muscles, feet, skin or tendons and ligaments.

Metazone can be used as a stand-alone product, or working in synergy with other NAF products, particularly at times of peak requirement.

Available in a choice of formats to suit the individual's requirement. Metazone Powder and Liquid are suitable for daily use, while Metazone Syringe is ideal for concentrated use at peak times.

Optimise their diet

When it comes to balancers we believe they are required in the modern diet of most if not all of our horses and ponies to help provide the essential vitamins, minerals and trace elements, along with essential gut support.

With reduced paddock offerings and smaller diversity of grass species, both preserved forage and turnout is unlikely to fulfil their daily requirements. This may lead to shortfalls in diet, and result in the reduction of the wellbeing of our horses or ponies, displacing their much needed homeostasis.

Feeding NAF Five Star Optimum Balancer will help optimise their daily ration. slowing down the rate of passage and enabling further uptake of essential nutrients. It is a uniquely concentrated pellet to help complement a high fibre, low concentrate diet without adding unnecessary bulk, supplying them with their requirements to remain in balance with their lifestyle.
